EDITION 6 ● MSF CONFERENCE ● AMATTOULLAH ADAMALY ● 25TH MAR, 2023

How is women's access to healthcare affected in the developing world?

Be it in conflict, in a natural disaster, a disease outbreak, or in an HIV programme - women are in need of specific care.

Reproductive healthcare is an integral part of the medical care MSF provides, especially in areas where maternal death is high, such as in Afghanistan or the Central African Republic.

The five main causes of maternal death are haemorrhage, sepsis, unsafe abortion, complications linked to high blood pressure, and obstructed labour.

MSF works to remedy the 'three delays' women face in receiving care during childbirth: the delay in deciding to seek care; the delay in reaching a health facility; and the delay in receiving adequate treatment at the facility.

Apart from emergency obstetric and newborn care, MSF also provides pre- and postnatal care and contraceptive services.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

As the first and currently only sixth form Friends of MSF committee in the UK, we ensure that we enthusiastically fundraise, raise awareness and support MSF campaigns however we can.

Our AGGS team went to King's College London to attend the annual MSF conference joined by other FoMSF committees from the UK. We explored how access to women's healthcare varies globally.
